Module: Managing Remote Employees

Section: Evaluating Costs

Section Objective: To ensure you take the costs for the remote set up into account when dealing with the remote employees.

- Since fewer employees are onsite regularly, are you reassessing your onsite and overhead costs to ensure that the cost of maintaining the remote employee is offset by a drop in overall costs?

- To avoid any possible resentment at not being onsite, have you communicated (subtly) to the remote employee the expenditures for the equipment and other necessities that he/she needs?

- When you communicate information about your expenditures, are you using this situation as an opportunity to show how much of a good investment you consider the employee?
